in Intercollegiate Bouts.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 19.—For the second consecutive season Yale wrestlers to-night won the intercollegiate championship, with Princeton well up for second place. The colleges stood as follows in the final rating: Yale, 13 points; Princeton, 8; Cornell, 6; Pennsylvania, 1; Columbia, 0.

Most of Yale's superiority was shown in the semi-finals, when she qualified seven men to four for Princeton and two for Cornell. Pennsylvania qualified only one and won nothing in the finals.

Yale won three of the final bouts, and Cornell and Princeton two each. The battle of the giants in the heavyweight class brought the spectators to their feet time and again. "Dutch" Goebel, the Yale football guard and shot putter, was the star of the evening, winning back the intercollegiate championship he held two years ago, but lost to Talbot of Cornell last season.

The most spectacular of the bouts to-night was between Goebel and Talbot, who met in the semi-finals. Goebel tugged away, and finally won his match on points, although Talbot secured the decision from him here two weeks ago in the Yale-Cornell dual meet. Goebel was pitted against Schwartz of Pennsylvania in the finals of the heavyweight class, and the giants, whose offensive wrestling ability easily exceeded their defensive power, hurled each other around like large dummies. Goebel finally pinned his man to the mat in about four minutes.

One of the finest exhibitions was given by Capt. King of the Princeton team and Noel of Yale in the 175-pound class. Noel assumed the aggressive, but Capt. King turned unexpectedly, caught his man napping, and held him long enough to win a fall.

Rolf of Princeton won a neat fall from Clark of Yale in the 145-pound class. The bouts were begun early in the afternoon when the preliminaries were wrestled. The finals were not finished till nearly midnight.

WRESTLERS IN FINAL BOUTS.

Wortmann Defeats Tisney in Hard Tussle at German-American A. C.

The open catch-as-catch-can wrestling tournament of the German-American Athletic Club was finished last night in the gymnasium of the club, 323 West Thirty-eighth Street. Three regular bouts with a couple of exhibitions and two boxing bouts of three minutes each comprised the programme, which was full of interest to a fairly large attendance.

The best bout was the meeting between Diederick Wortmann, the Metropolitan champion at 145 pounds, and R. Tisney of the St. George Athletic Club, the National champion at 158 pounds two years ago. Tisney was taller and heavier than his opponent, but the cleverness of Wortmann earned for him the decision after two extra bouts. Neither man gained a fall, but in the judge's opinion Wortmann did the most work.

G. Peterson of the Harlem Y. M. C. A. made a quick ending of his bout with Harry Muth in the 135-pound class, and J. H. Krug of the National Turn Verein got a quick decision over I. H. Grill, the latter being thrown in 53 seconds. The point banner went to the German-American Athletic Club. Summary:

135-Pound Class.—G. Peterson, Harlem Y. M. C. A., defeated Harry Muth, German-American A. C., with body hold. Time—1:07.

145-Pound Class.—J. H. Krug, National Turn Verein, defeated I. Grill, Educational Alliance A. C., with body hold. Time—0:53.

158-Pound Class.—Diederick Wortmann, German-American A. C., defeated R. Tisney, St. George A. C., on work after two extra bouts. Time—15:00.

Fordham's Interesting Programme.

Fordham's game in the Twenty-second Regiment Armory to-night will have a most varied and interesting programme. The biggest event in amateur circles for the season will be George Bonhag's attempt to outfoot a relay made up of Fred Bellars and Jimmy Lee in a seven-mile run. Besides Bonhag's run, the other novel feature is the three-mile team race, in which the leading athletic clubs of the vicinity have entered. The scoring will be on the cross-country plan, four men being allowed to start, while only three will count for places.
